been, "Down with the Banks."

In times of commercial prosperity, no monetary institutions could survive this perpetual war; and when the madness of national policy, in withholding a Protective Tariff, has crippled our commerce and drained our specie, what could be expected from this guerilla warfare but embarrassment, if not destruction? The people have become fanatdelicacy of their dependence on community, demand heavy exactions and destructive penalties. Under such circumstances, to me it appears the hest policy to let the whirlwind have its way !- chartered the schooner to take a load of lumber The canker is at the heart of society, and legisla- from Darien, Geo. to Ponce or Guayma, P. R., sion cannot relievo it. It must eat its way. Skilful surgery may relieve it by cutting beyond the wound; and thus, by letting the majority in our Company, obtained a cargo of sugar, molasses and State have uncontrolled and unchecked power to carry on their warfare against the Banks, we may to leaving Porto Rico, the merchants to whom he expect a return to sanity and moderation! Thus only can we kill the delusion that Banks are evils and that a metallic currency is the summum bonum of every hope. Thus only can the people be convinced that continual warfare prevents Banks from exercising their legitimate usefulness, and that the libelants were not authorized to sue in a thus only can they learn that death is better than the continued torture of the rack, with every joint dislocated and every muscle strained! Such, I trust, will be the feelings of our friends this winter. Let Loco-Pocoism have its wav-let the people learn by experience the folly of this eternal bloodhound baying against the banks, and they will profit by it, though it will be dearly A resolution urging on Congress an appropriation to open a channel through the bar at the mouth of Susquehanna River; and another for the construction of a road from the National Road through Meadville and Pittsburg to the harbor of Eric, have been before the House. The Nicholson Court has been a fruitful theme of debate dur-Ing the week, and I should not be surprised at its repeal. Next week we shall probably be busy; the Girard Bank failure has been provocative of discussion and may hasten action. The Southern Mail this evening brought in the cheering news of the defeat of the Repeal of the Bankrupt Law! It will carry joy to thousands. MURDER IN RICHMOND .- Just as our paper is going to press (12 o'clock) we hear that a mun by the name of Fletcher Houth has shot another, Carter Wells, at his room, over Wm. Wallace's Store -supposed to be mortally wounded. Heath immediately went down the Alley leading by Wallace's store, and, with a hatchet, killed a woman by the name of Delia Harrison. Her head was split open, and one of her arms cut off. He was [Richmond Whig.

ALABAMA LEGISLATURE .- We find in the proceedings of the concentrated wisdom of Alabama, the following important item:

"Smith of Lauderdale introduced a resolution prohibiting members from smoking in the Hall of worsted night-caps, razor, &c. He was committed the House. Houston from Washington, moved to to prison to answer. amend the resolution by adding, and that no member be allowed to eat more than a pint of ground peas at any one sitting of this House. Motion not entertained. Another member moved by way of proviso, that provided any member shall get wet, in the act, she was committed to prison. he may stand by the fire and dry his clothes, smokes he never so much. Amendment not entertained, and the original resolution passed.

MUTINY .- The Levant, at this port from Cape Good Hope, brought five mutineers from whale ship Herald, of Fairhaven, sent home for trial by Isaac Chase, Esq. U. S. Consul at Cape Town. Several others engaged in the mutiny returned to their duty, and proceeded in the Herald to cruise, Those brought home for trial were taken in custody on Saturday by the U. S. Marshal. We understand that the mutiny was not of an aggravated character, and that it grew out of dissatisfaction on the the part of the crew, who refused to do duty on account of alleged insufficient food. They were put on board in irons, which in a day or two were removed, and they cheerfully assisted in working the [Boston Adv.

which was a British vessel, and sailed from a port vade its columns, and it will, in all respects, be adapted in Wales for New-York. Some difficulty occurred to the tastes and capacities of ALL Youthful persons, and between him and the captain on the voyage, and he was put before the mast. On arriving here he left the brig and represented his case to the British Consul, who told him to return to his vessel. He refused doing so, and libeled the brig for his wages.

Judge Betts observed that the Court made it a rule not to allow the seamen of foreign vessels to enter complaints here unless on strong grounds of persecution, or in extreme cases where they could not return and appeal to the laws of their own country. He saw no reason to depart from the rule here. The Court decreed that the case did not authorize the arrest of the vessel, and the libel was dismissed, with costs.

Samuel Bowker, et al. vs. the steamboat Flushing .- The steamboat, while having a vessel in tow, ics on the subject of Banks; they take the tone ran foul of a tow-boat belonging to plaintiffs, doing of party leaders, and, without understanding the her considerable injury. Decreed that the libelants are entitled to rocover the actual amount of damages.

Georgia Lumber Company vs. schooner Tangala.—Certain persons representing the Company and obtain a cargo there to be brought to New-York. The lumber sold for about $400, when the captain, as authorized, drew for $4,500 on the coffee, and arrived with it at this port. Previous had been consigned gave him instructions not to deliver the cargo here till the bills of exchange had been paid. Some persons demanded the cargo on account of the Company on the mere payment of the freight, but the captain refused delivering it .-They then libeled the vessel. The Court decreed corporate capacity, and that the captain had a right to obey the instructions of the house that shipped the cargo until it was paid for. Libel dismissed, with costs.
